

Food Hygiene and Safety Course

FOOD HYGIENE & SAFETY TRAINING

Do your staff handle food?

Have your staff had training that gives them the knowledge to handle food safely?

Do you want to show your customers you are serious about food safety?

The City of Melville offers a one day Nationally Accredited Food Hygiene and Safety Course which will teach your staff about bacteria, cross contamination and their responsibilities as a food handler. We will teach how to reduce the risk of food poisoning through personal hygiene, correct cleaning methods, understanding temperature control and safe food handling procedures.

Who should have training?

- Food handlers in cafés, restaurants, commercial kitchens, takeaways, retail outlets, delicatessens and coffee shops.
- Kitchen hands, cooks, counter hands, food handlers
- Staff and volunteers in school canteens, childcare centres

What will they learn?

- An introduction to the Food Safety Standards
- Cross Contamination
- Food Storage & Temperature Control
- Personal Hygiene
- Cleaning & Sanitation and Pest Control

Cost: Normally $126.50 per person, but only $49.50 per person employed in food premises in City of Melville.

This includes all training notes, workshop materials and a light lunch. Participants will receive a 'Statement of Attainment' on the successful completion of the course.

We can provide an additional certificate for you to display at your premises, to show your customers that you are serious about producing safe food
