About Leeming

In 1827, Captain James Stirling named Melville Water after Lord Melville, First Lord of the Admiralty 1812 - 1830. The land adjacent to Melville Water became known as the Melville Water Park Estate (later Applecross) when it was subdivided from 1896. The suburb Melville was developed in 1953 though a small pocket of land was opened up adjacent to the Canning Highway in the 1920's.

The majority of streets in the suburb of Melville are named after people who were aboard Captain Charles Fremantle's ship, the HMS Challenger. Many of the street names in Leeming are taken from the 1972 Planning Department document on Original Landowners.
