Age-Friendly Melville

The City of Melville continues to build on its previous achievements working towards a vision of an Age-Friendly Melville to advance the aspirations and wellbeing of our ageing community.

We are heading towards a time where there will more ageing adults in Australia than there will be children. We continue to engage with our older residents, and based on what you tell us, we continually look to improve our strategies to reflect your aspirations for the future.

We will also continue to maintain our participation in the World Health Organisation's Global Age-Friendly Communities Network and work with the state government and other local governments in Western Australia to progress our vision of an age-friendly City.

The City has developed strategies and actions outlined in our document 'Age-Friendly Melville Plan 2017-2021' which targets the key areas identified by older people for improvements that promote active ageing. The priority areas identified include housing, transport, respect and inclusion as well as social participation.

This resource is regularly updated and improved with the latest information about services and activities that will support your independence and participation in the community.

We hope that this booklet assists you to live well in Age-Friendly Melville.

Accommodation and Housing for Seniors

Uncertain about what accommodation would be right for you?

If you are unsure about what accommodation would suit you, call and discuss your situation with the City of Melville Community Development Office on 1300 635 845 or (08) 9364 0666.

Remember that you have the right to decide what accommodation you want to live in. Gain as much information as you can to make the best decision that suits your needs.

Making well informed decisions about your living arrangements while you are well is preferable to having to make them during a time of personal health crisis or immediately following the loss of a loved one. Your ability to make good decisions during such times could be greatly affected.

The options that are available to you are dependent on your choices and preferences about a range of things such as your social connections, health, and ability to live independently and of course your budget.

The following organisations are able to provide advice to assist you in making decisions that suit you personally.

NOTE: Some of the organisations charge a fee and some offer advice for free.

Accommodation - Independent Living

Independent Living

There are a range of styles of housing available for people who are able to live independently and look after themselves, possibly with some minimal support.

These homes are generally smaller than family homes and are easier to maintain. Some are located in strata complexes and some are located in retirement villages with a range of additional services.

Some allow pets, storage of caravans, trailers, boats etc.

Ensure you are clear about what you need, that it can be provided and what costs are associated with the choice you make. Gain independent advice before signing any agreements or contracts.

If you require some assistance to remain living independently refer to Home and Community Care (HACC) and Home Care Packages on page six.

The following facilities provide independent living units and can be contacted directly to find out more information and availability.
