

Quenda (Isoodon fusciventer)

Did you know?

Quendas are small native marsupials that dig small holes to find food. Their digging is very important because turning the soil mixes in nutrients, makes it easier for water to soak in, adds air, and helps seeds to grow.