Why Local Facilities Matter

Youth need local community spaces

Outdoor education requires suitable facilities

Scout halls are long-term community assets

Families value local access

Safe spaces for youth development

Scout halls are more than buildings — they are places where young people grow.

We are planning for growth, not decline.

Growing youth membership across all sections.

Strong community interest and engagement.

More families are looking for local, values-based opportunities.

We're building leadership, confidence and life skills for the future.

Investing in facilities means investing in our young people and our community.

We are planning for growth, not decline.

Our temporary location allows us to continue Scouting — but Attadale Scout Hall remains our home.

Our current location keeps Scouting strong.

It gives our young people a safe place to learn, grow and belong.

But Attadale Scout Hall is our true home.

It's where generations of memories were made.

We're committed to securing our future — at Attadale.

“Our temporary location allows us to continue Scouting — but Attadale Scout Hall remains our home.”

Once community youth infrastructure is lost, it is rarely restored.

Community facilities for young people are increasingly hard to find.

Once lost, they are rarely rebuilt or replaced.

Future generations shouldn't miss out.

Let's protect what we have — for our youth, our families, and our future.

“Once community youth infrastructure is lost, it is rarely restored.”

Scouting builds skills, confidence and leadership for life.

Young people gain skills that last a lifetime.

Scouting builds confidence, resilience and independence.

Leaders today, contributing citizens tomorrow.

Hands-on learning and real world experiences.

Preparing young people to navigate their future.

Investing in Scouting is investing in the leaders of tomorrow.

Investing in youth spaces is investing in the future of our community.

Strong communities begin with strong young people.

Scouting builds the skills, values and connections that last a lifetime.

Youth spaces create opportunities, belonging and brighter futures.

When we support young people, we strengthen everyone.

Investing in youth spaces is investing in the future of our community.

Attadale Scout Group wants to return home.

Attadale Scout Hall is more than a building —
it is a place where young people learn, grow, connect and belong.

We are committed to continuing Scouting in Attadale for future generations.

Please help us protect local youth spaces in Attadale.
