Replace with a Jacaranda	1
It is of my opinon it is impacting the fence and will cause damage due to the large root system as indicated by photos taken by council.	1
We have had previous experience with our Jackarnda tree roots breaking the water mains. ALSO breaking a wall around it. So I agree the tree should go.	1
Eventually the Box tree will get bigger and roots will damage the brick wall. Roots wil grow bigger towards the fence wall.	1

I would normally oppose the removal of established trees, but today I have walked down to have a look at the tree in question. It is blatenly obvious that the tree is causing structural damage to the wall. The property also has two other street trees so I cant see any impact to streetscape.	1
Yes I agree that the tree is a nightmare as my yard seems to get all the dead leaves and also I am very aware of the roots when walking on the verge	1
In the absence of robust justification it is environmentally irresonsible to "terminate" the tree., By observing the nearby trees in terms of its size and footprint I am in the same opinon as the City council officer. Suggest to manage the tree size rather than removing it completely.		1
Removing the tree will have no impact to the street precinct. The tree is currently uncitely as it is not inline with the street tree line. Fully support the removal to avoid damage to the boundary wall and create a new opportunity to replant in the verge area (inline with current tree line)	1
We do not agree with the proposed removal of the tree		1
The tree is in a very awkward position	1

That tree is close too the wall the roots will only get bigger and damage the wall	1
If the resident has concerns regarding the tree I think its alright to remove it this will also allow the Jacaranda tree to spread	1
It is a pity if is cut down, we plant it for decades		1
I notice a Frangipani already growing in its stead which will be far more attractive & acceptable	1
It is evident that the Queensland Box and the tree to the left were planted privately & these two trees do not add to the street scape. We would be vigorously opposed to the removal of ANY verge Jacarranda a tree in the street	1
